WAYS YOU CAN HELP MANAGE YOUR NEGATIVE IMPACT ON NATIVE FAUNA

ARE YOU A PET OWNER?

CATS

Get your cat a cat-friendly bell to protect native animal populations. Keep your cats indoors at night. 546 million native animals a year are killed by roaming pet cats in Australia.

DOGS

Remember: dogs are not under any circumstances allowed in National Parks.

Dog walking in parks leads to a 35% reduction in bird diversity and 41% reduction in bird abundance.

FEEDING DUCKS

Stop feeding ducks to protect their health.

Angels Wing Syndrome affects waterfowl with insufficient nutrition, hindering them from flying and leading to an early death.

STAYING ON PATHS

Stay on designated paths to minimise negative impacts.

Straying off paths increases spreading of weeds, behaviour disturbance, and habitat fragmentation.

WIPING SHOES

Wipe your shoes before going into protected areas to ensure you aren't spreading weeds.

73% of visitors to Australian National Parks carry seeds on their clothes. 288 weed species are carried on humans.

DO YOU LIKE HIKING OR CYCLING OR PICNICKING?

DO YOU HAVE A GARDEN?

GARDEN WASTE

Dump your garden waste sustainably in the green bin.

70% of plants in gardens are invasive. 45% of natural habitats close to urban areas are affected, disrupting native fauna.

"Please view the above poster. This is part of my campaign for Science to educate my community to be better custodians of National Parks. Instead of printing posters, I have decided to distribute them digitally to minimise my environmental impact. Please show it to your friends and forward it."

P&C FEDERATION NSW NEWS

INVITATION TO COMMENT

The Audit Office of NSW is conducting an audit of how well the NSW Department of Education has implemented the 2019 Disability Strategy, and whether it is leading to improved outcomes for students with disability in NSW public schools.

The Audit Office has requested feedback from the P&C Federation and our members. If you want to contribute comments to the P&C Federation, please send them to mail@pandc.org.au by Monday, 11 September 2023, 5:00 pm AEST. Your comments will be treated in the strictest confidence, and we will not disclose your identity or school without your permission.

Although you are free tell us anything you think is relevant, we are especially interested to know your thoughts on the following topics:

- Are you aware of the Department's 2019 Disability Strategy?
- If you have any children with a disability:
- What are the ways in which they are supported?
- Do you believe the supports they receive have improved their outcomes?
- Do you think there are any ways support offered by the school or Department could be improved?

WELCOME TO THE PARENT AND CARER HUB

The P&C Federation is very excited to announce the launch of its NEW Parent & Carer Hub, an online resource and community, for all parents and carers of public school students in NSW.

Join our Parent Communities to contribute content, ask questions and comment on topics that matter to you, including Health & Wellbeing, Curriculum, Cybersafety and Diversity & Inclusion.

Access expert webinars, videos, podcasts, tips and guides on education, parenting, families and young people

Share your voice and feedback directly with decision makers such as the NSW Department of Education and NESA.

Check out the Parent & Carer Hub now. If you sign up before 30th September you will go into the draw to win a $250 Big W gift card. Terms and conditions apply.

2023 NSW P&C FEDERATION ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Jason Wong and I were once again pleased to represent Friends of the Village at this year's Annual Conference. The Keynote was delivered by NSW Education Minister Prue Car, in which she acknowledged the vital work of P&Cs and stated that "our system could not survive without you". There were many informative panels and discussions through out the day and some amazing P&C members met - so many people doing such great work for public education in NSW!

I loved hearing from Zoe Robinson, Advocate for Children and Young People, who is passionate about making sure our young people have their voices heard and listened to - and that this should be central to the work we do in education, government, business and community. At LLV, we do place our students' voices and opinions and feelings at the forefront of their learning, and I was once again reminded of the great opportunity and environment we have in our Village.

Please enjoy this terrible photo of Jason and me taken at the end of a long day (from an unfortunate angle)! It was our privilege to be in attendance for Lindfield Learning Village.
